The “Letter From the Editors” introduction of Knots was written by the Editorial Collective for the journal. This section reflects views and opinions of the collective itself. Unless stated otherwise, contributions express the opinions of the writers themselves, not the Editorial Collective, the Review Committee or the University of Toronto.

Knots is an ongoing peer-reviewed undergraduate publication. Submissions must be by artists and writers created during an undergraduate degree. Future callouts for submissions will be sent through the University of Toronto Disability Studies Listserve. If you are interested in submitting material to the journal or you would like to be added to this listserve, please contact knots.contact@gmail.com
